Laid off Workers Get Help at the Job Market

People currently being laid off from their jobs can find assistance for getting back to work, filing for unemployment, relocating or starting an re-training program at the Job Market.

“We know a couple hundred people have just received temporary or permanent lay off notices that they may not have been expecting and may not know what to do next. Even though this may be a scary or uncertain time, people do succeed in finding good jobs when they take constructive steps right away toward their next job,” urged the Workforce Investment Board director, Jacqueline Debets.

The Job Market has funds can put directly in-touch with financial assistance, re-training opportunities and jobs that need good people today. Call 445-6149 or visit 409 K Street, Eureka, www.thejobmarket.org.
